

‘SHINING EXAMPLE OF WHAT VOLUNTEERS CAN DO’

Community Pulls Off Successful Barbecue

By Carolyn Walker

The 66th annual Barbecue is now history, and once again the city of Dawson Springs was blessed with good food, good weather and friends and family returning home to share the occasion.

“It was a shining example of what volunteers can do,” said Dawson Springs Community Center board member Kathy Nichols. “Without volunteer labor, we couldn’t afford to put this on.”

Nichols was encouraged by the new faces she saw helping to put hams on the barbecue pits and at the community center pulling meat.

“We need to teach our kids that if you want your community to succeed, you have to get out and work for it,” she said.

Nichols said the meat and sauce were delicious, and the weather couldn’t have been better. Despite those positives, sales were down slightly this year. With the price of meat increasing by 60 cents per pound, the additional costs hit hard.

“Our profit margin for the meat is always slim, but this year it will be even more so,” Nichols said.

Total food-related expenses this year were $15,858.10. This was covered by Friday’s proceeds at the community center and street fair, leaving bulk sales at Food Giant, which continued through the weekend, as profit. At press time, that amount was $13,304.

“What Dudley (Riley) did with the raffle tickets will help offset the cost of meat,” Nichols said. “He is the raffle king.”

The sale of raffle tickets totaled $3,171, $2,269 more than in 2013. The 5K run grossed $830 this year, with almost double the participation of last year’s inaugural run.

In its second year in the downtown area, the street fair is still experiencing growing pains. While numerous vendors were on hand, Nichols hopes in future years more groups such as school classes and organizations will take advantage of the opportunity for fundraising at the fair with games and activities for children. A change made a year ago allows groups to keep all profits from the booths they sponsor.

Making Barbecue 2015 even better is already a priority for community center board members, and Nichols said they will look at ways to improve the bottom line.

“All in all, it was a success,” she said of this year’s event. “We truly appreciate all the individuals who helped in any way.”

BY FRANKFORT GRAND JURY

Rep. Ben Waide Is Indicted

Attorney General Jack Conway announced the indictment of Kentucky State Rep. Forrest “Ben” Waide, 51, of Madisonville, for alleged violations of Kentucky campaign finance laws. On Tuesday morning, a Franklin County grand jury returned a two-count felony indictment charging Waide with knowingly accepting contributions from a corporation, in violation of KRS 121.150(20), and causing funds in his campaign account to be expended for purposes that were not allowable campaign expenditures, in violation of KRS 121.175.

The charges relate to Waide’s 2010 campaign for state representative and are the result of an investigation conducted by Conway’s Department of Criminal Investigations. The investigation was conducted in response to a January 2014 complaint filed with the Kentucky Registry of Election Finance by shareholders of Liberty Rehabilitation, PSC.

Waide is alleged to have illegally accepted approximately $10,000 in campaign contributions from Liberty Rehabilitation, a company in Madisonville where he was a partner.

He is also alleged to have submitted approximately $6,000 in receipts to his campaign fund for reimbursement of expenses he did not incur.

Conway’s Office of Special Prosecutions is handling the prosecution of this case. Waide is scheduled for arraignment at 9 a.m. Aug. 29 in Franklin Circuit Court.

The charges against Waide are class D felonies, and each carries a penalty of one to five years in prison and up to a $10,000 fine.

A charge is merely an accusation. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

Screenings Are In Aug.

Preschool screenings and re-screenings will take place Aug. 7 and 8 in the new preschool location in the elementary building.

Students who were screened in the spring will be contacted for their appointments. For initial screening appointments, contact Kristin Alexander at 270-797-3811, ext. 3 or kristin.alexander@dawson-springs.kyschools.us.

Preschool will begin Aug. 25. Paid options will be informed the first week of school.

‘I MAY SIT ON THE SQUARE WITH SOME OF THE GUYS’

Retirement Reception To Be Held For Patterson

By Carolyn Walker

A 30-year career in law enforcement will come to an end tomorrow for Capt. Craig Patterson. He will retire after spending the past seven years as a member of the Dawson Springs Police Department.

Patterson said this is a day he has looked forward to, but he is leaving with mixed feelings.

“I’ve enjoyed every minute of working here. I’ve enjoyed the people,” he said. “Dawson Springs really is a special place. I’ll miss the day-to-day interaction with people. I’ll miss it, but I will come back. I may sit on the square with some of the guys.”

And Patterson will be missed in Dawson Springs as well, especially by his colleagues in the local police department.

“He will leave a big void in our department to fill,”

Chief Bill Crider said. “He is probably one of the most respected law enforcement officers in Hopkins County.”

Born and reared in Madisonville, Patterson has spent his life, both personal and professional, in Hopkins County. He went into law enforcement after working in other fields, possibly inspired by his brother who retired several years ago from the Madisonville Police Department.

In 1984 Patterson joined the police force in Earlington and later served as police chief there. He left to take a position with the Hopkins County Sheriff’s Department in 1989 but returned to Earlington as chief in 1999.

In April 2007, Patterson accepted then mayor Stacia Peyton’s offer to work in Dawson Springs. However, this was not his first opportunity to join the DSPD.

Baptist Health Is Stop On Smoke Free State Tour

Baptist Health Madisonville is one of the stops on the Road to a Healthier Kentucky Tour this week. The tour, which will be at Baptist Health at 12:30 p.m. Friday, will make several stops across the state as it heads to the annual Fancy Farm Picnic.

At each stop, the Smoke-Free Coalition will speak to the media, rally supporters and reach out to legislators urging them to join 24 other states in passing a comprehensive, statewide smoke-free law that covers all indoor workplaces and public places, including bars and restaurants. The goal of the tour is to get all Kentuckians active and engaged in supporting smoke-free policy as the campaign gears up for the 2015 legislative session.

During the last four legislative sessions, Rep. Susan Westrom introduced comprehensive, statewide smoke-free workplace bills. Advocates are puzzled by the state's inaction on the issue when 65 percent of Kentuckians favor a smoke-free workplace law.

In addition, more than 500 health organizations and community groups, many businesses and the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce have strongly endorsed such a bill in order to improve health and reduce health care costs. A poll of chamber of commerce members also showed more than 90 percent support for a comprehensive, statewide smoke-free workplace law.

The Smoke-Free Coalition is now working hard to spread the word and rally support from as many Kentuckians as possible before the 2015 session begins.

"2015 is the year we are finally going to pass a smoke-free law and protect everyone's right to breathe clean air in Kentucky," said Amy Barkley, chairwoman for the Smoke-Free Kentucky Coalition. "We know Kentuckians support going smoke-free, and we're touring the state to call attention to those supporters."

Secondhand smoke contains more than 7,000 chemicals, almost 70 of which are known to cause cancer, and is proven to cause heart disease, lung cancer, respiratory illnesses and even premature death. In fact, studies indicate secondhand smoke exposure causes about 1,000 deaths a year in Kentucky.

It is time for Kentucky to protect everyone's right to breathe smoke-free air. No one should have to choose between their lives and their livelihoods.

Information about how smoke-free policies are good for health and businesses can be found at www.smokefreekentucky.org.

Tennessee Man Injured In Collision With Mower

A Clarksville, Tenn., resident was injured in a collision on the Edward T. Breathitt Pennyrile Parkway Thursday afternoon. A preliminary investigation by Kentucky State Police, revealed Henry Wall, 81, was northbound on the parkway when he failed to see a mowing tractor that was also traveling north. The tractor was operated by Jose Garcia, 42, of Batesville, Ind., who was part of the mowing crew working on the parkway. The tractor was in the process of crossing a bridge at the 57 mile marker in order to continue mowing the median when it was struck from behind. Wall was transported by PHI to St. Mary's in Evansville, Ind., for treatment. Garcia did not sustain any injuries as a result of the collision. Both drivers were wearing seat belts.

KSP Investigates Rollover

A rollover accident Saturday on Ky. 1069 was investigated by Kentucky State Police. The preliminary investigation revealed Jordan Ellison, 25, of Dundas, Ill., attempted to move his International truck to the right side of the road to give an approaching vehicle ample room. His rear passenger side tires exited the road at that time. When Ellison tried to maneuver the vehicle back onto the road, the truck overturned, blocking both lanes of the highway. Neither Ellison nor his passenger, Lance Hurd, 37, of Flora, Ill., was injured as a result of the accident. The vehicle was transporting equipment utilized by the oil industry which contained a small amount of radioactive material. However, the material was not a threat.

DURING the week of June 24-27 students involved in The Burn Youth Group of Dayspring Assembly Of God observed missions week and went out in the community and did yard work, cleaned up trash, and built driveways. Here Ariel Childers and Austin Hart are clearing an area of trash.

U.S. 62 Jeep-Mower Crash Sends Driver To Hospital

The Hopkins County Sheriff's Department investigated a collision between a vehicle and a lawn mower July 23 on U.S. 62 in St. Charles. According to the sheriff's office, Donnie Mannahan, 53, of White Plains, was operating a riding mower in the eastbound lane. The mower had no lights or reflector. Charles Hackney, 27, of Nortonville, struck the mower because he was unable to see it. The mower left the right side of the road, coming to rest in the grass. Mannahan was knocked off the mower. Hackney's Jeep also went off the right side of the road and came to rest in a field. Mannahan was transported by ambulance to Baptist Health Madisonville for non-life-threatening injuries. Hackney was not injured. Mike Evans was the reporting deputy.

Two-Car Parkway Collision Sends Youth To Hospital

A two-vehicle collision on the Pennyrile Parkway Saturday sent a juvenile to Baptist Health Madisonville. According to Kentucky State Police, Tammy Stokes, 47, of Nortonville, was traveling north on the parkway as Marlon Brown, 35, of Hopkinsville was also driving north. Stokes attempted to merge into the left lane with the intention of making a U-turn at an approaching gravel area. While attempting to merge, Stokes' vehicle sideswiped Brown's vehicle, causing it to exit the road and strike a guardrail. Brown's juvenile son was transported by ambulance to Baptist Health for a possible injury sustained in the collision. Trooper Jonathan Murphy was the investigating officer.

Asa's Last Years
II Chronicles 16

In the thirty-sixth year of Asa's reign Baasha king of Israel went up against Judah and fortified Ramah to prevent anyone from leaving or entering the territory of Asa king of Judah.

Asa sought an alliance with Ben-Hadad king of Aram, who was ruling in Damascus and sent him silver and gold asking Ben-Hadad to break his treaty with Baasha king of Israel so he would withdraw from Judah.

Ben-Hadad agreed with King Asa and sent the commanders of his forces against the towns of Israel and conquered Ijon, Dan, Abel Maim and all the store cities of Naphtali. Baasha heard this and abandoned his work at Ramah.

Soon Hanani the seer came to Asa and reminded him how the Lord had helped him with difficult situations in times past, the Cushites and Libyans with a mighty army with great numbers of chariots and horsemen. When Asa had relied on the LORD, He had delivered. Hanani told Asa that the alliance with Ben-Hadad was a foolish move.

Asa became angry with the seer and put him in prison. At the same time Asa brutally oppressed some of the people.

Three years later Asa was afflicted with a disease in his feet but he did not seek help from the LORD, but only from the physicians. Then in the forty-first year of his reign Asa died and rested with his fathers.

Public Is Warned About Unclaimed Property Scam

Kentucky State Treasurer Todd Hollenbach is cautioning Kentuckians to be wary of suspicious mail, email or other contact regarding unclaimed property that does not include the official Kentucky State Treasury letter head. The treasurer's office was recently notified of the suspicious mailings by the National Unclaimed Property Association.

"The majority of these mailings are coming in the form of a postcard with a Denver, Colo., postmark and an unclaimed property message notification," Hollenbach said. The cards are usually green, blue, yellow or orange and instruct the recipient to call a toll free number with a provided personal ID number. The callers are then directed to the NAUPA website.

"I want to assure everyone that these postcards are in no way, shape or form a part of the Kentucky State Treasury or our Unclaimed Property program, known as Treasure Finders," Hollenbach said. According to NAUPA, the post cards reportedly are being mailed out by debt collectors.

"If you receive one of these notices," Hollenbach added, "I'd advise you not to call the number or provide any information. Call us instead."

Hollenbach said the Treasure Finders program has been very successful and is nearing its goal of returning $120 million to Kentuckians.

"Unfortunately with the success and widespread recognition of our program, individuals with ulterior motives have at times used this as an opportunity to portray themselves as being associated with this program. Let me assure you, in this case, they are not."

For concerns involving suspicious people identifying themselves as Kentucky State Treasurer or Unclaimed Property representatives, notify NAUPA at 859-244-8150 or the state treasury at 1-800-465-4722.

"In the meantime, if you want to search for any unclaimed property, you might have coming to you, go to the free website www.missingmoney.com," Hollenbach said.

Stolen Firearms Recovered Following Drug Arrest

The Kentucky State Police arrested a Madisonville man July 23 on drug and firearm related charges.

Trooper Bob Winters, Sgt. Tim Sales and Detective Carlo Anderson executed a search warrant at the Red Cardinal Inn in Madisonville, locating suspected methamphetamine and drug paraphernalia in the room occupied by Derek L. Harr, 33.

Officers also located a stolen handgun on Red Cardinal Inn property. Three additional firearms were recovered from a different location.

All the guns recovered were stolen during a burglary earlier that day from a Wesco Drive residence.

Harr was arrested and charged with possession of a first-degree controlled substance (methamphetamine), possession of a firearm by a convicted felon, possession of a handgun by a convicted felon, possession of drug paraphernalia, tampering with physical evidence and first-degree burglary. He was lodged in the Hopkins County Detention Center.

Nortonville Couple Arrested On Drug-Related Charges

Two Nortonville people were arrested on drug-related charges by the Hopkins County Sheriff's Department Saturday.

Deputy Heath Owens was contacted by the Muhlenberg County Sheriff's Office with information regarding stolen items and possible drugs at a residence in Nortonville. The information resulted in a search warrant being issued for 48 S. Chestnut St.

The homeowners,

Frank Evans and Vickie Crafton, drove by the scene as the warrant was being served. A traffic stop of their vehicle revealed a large amount of suspected methamphetamine among assorted Hydrocodone pills. Other items associated with drug trafficking were also found.

Detective Otis Chamberlain was called to the scene to assist with the search of the residence. Additional charges will be filed against Evans and Crafton.

Police Captain Retiring Thursday

According to Crider, he had contacted Patterson several times over the years when there were openings in the department, but until 2007 the circumstances had not been right.

Crider believes Patterson has been a stabilizing influence on the local force during his time in Dawson Springs.

"In a small department, there is a high turnover rate. Typically you deal with a lot of younger officers, and Craig has been a stabilizing factor," Crider said. "He's the type of guy everybody looks up to — the community, the officers, especially the new officers."

Crider described Patterson as a leader, noting that he has numerous specialized trainings and has been able to step and run the department in Crider's absence.

"Nothing substitutes for experience," he said.

Patterson said he understands he can't make everyone happy, but he has always tried to be fair and hopes he has made a difference in people's lives during his time in law enforcement and in Dawson Springs. His advice to new officers is, "Always make your decision with your heart and not your head. Remember the job is not personal."

"We hate to see him leave, but I also understand retirement," Crider said. "He has worked 30 years, relentlessly serving the public. He deserves time to sit back and enjoy what he has earned. We wish him well in his retirement."

Patterson plans to "slow down and smell the roses" for a while and take a vacation with his wife, the former Myra Jackson, a Dawson Springs native. Then, after he finishes his "honey-do list" he will consider what comes next.

"I'm not a couch person. I can't just sit on the couch," he said.

A retirement reception for Patterson will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. tomorrow in city council chambers.

ABOUT TOWN

By Scott

Don't be mad, it's only an opinion

Opinions are like — well maybe you know what opinions are like. This is an opinion column, just like the commentaries and other editor columns published in this and other newspapers. Opinions are not necessarily scientific fact and are just one person's belief about a subject.

With that in mind, this opinion writer is going to voice an opinion (which doesn't mean it is correct, but also doesn't mean it's not correct) about various and sundry things concerning this year's Barbecue.

Our town has been doing something right based on the fact there have been 66 of these annual events, and everything looks as if there will be a 67th, 68th, etc. However, everything can be improved upon, and so can our town's annual festival.

The move downtown is working well, but the move away from the Community Center Board of Directors having less to do with the street fair portion of the event is not working as well. The entertainment portion of the street fair this year was very good. There is lots of good local entertainment, and who says we have to keep it just local. There is a lot of talent in our neighboring towns who would probably like the publicity and play free at the event.

The part of the street fair that isn't doing as well pertains to the children. There just aren't enough booths and games. There needs to be more for youngsters to do and enjoy for the street fair to be fun for one and all. Local organizations have stepped up for years and years to provide booths such as the dunk-a-roo, ring-a-cane, ring-a-coke, etc.

Our new school superintendent, Lenny Whalen, has said he wants the students and organizations at Dawson Springs Community School to be more involved with community events. This would seem a very good opportunity for our students — as well as for other civic organizations, churches, etc.

There just needs to be more — much more — for the youngest of our citizens to enjoy.

Another opinion concerns the actual barbecue which we eat at the Barbecue.

The volunteers who prepare the meat are appreciated, and they do as good a job as they can.

However, everyone's tastes are the same as opinions — they differ. While walking around taking pictures of the entire operation, I noticed some people who prepare the meat throw the outer layer of meat away because they say it is burned or whatever. This writer thinks that part of the meat adds a whole lot of flavor to the barbecue. Granted, a big hunk of it is overwhelming for some, but when it's chopped and mixed with the other meat there is much more flavor. Without that part of the meat it may as well be cooked in ovens or boiled and not hickory smoked. That's just one opinion. Some will disagree.

Now, about the barbecue sauce. This year's sauce was the best. It had just enough zip and enhanced the meat.

Many people may not have noticed, but there was something missing from this year's Barbecue which has never been missed at a Barbecue before. My mother, Pollyanna Dillingham, and her good friend Rita Ridley missed the event for the first time ever. I'm sure there were others who attended all 65 Barbecues before this one but were absent this year, but we weren't aware of them.

One more opinion before we move on to some funnies: Dudley Riley is the best there is at selling raffle tickets. We've always said this part of the community center's fund raising is 100 percent profit after the $500 grand prize is taken off the top. The sale of the raffle tickets should always top $1,500 easily and actually be well above $2,000 every year, just as it was this year.

The concierge told him he was in luck, there was a pizza place that just opened, and they offered delivery. The concierge gave the man the phone number, and he went to his room and ordered a pizza.

Thirty minutes later, the delivery guy showed up to the door with the pizza.

The man took the pizza and started sneezing uncontrollably. He asked the delivery man, "What on earth did you put on this pizza?"

The delivery man bowed and said, "We put on the pizza what you ordered, pepper only."

- "I'd like to help you out. Which way did you come in?"

Incumbents still get re-elected

By Lee H. Hamilton

It's no news that Congress is unpopular. In fact, at times it seems the only real novelty on Capitol Hill would be a jump in its approval rating. In June, a Gallup poll found members' standing with the American people at a historic low for a midterm-election year. Which might have been notable except, as The Washington Post pointed out, that "Congress's approval rating has reached historic lows at least 12 times since 2010."

Here's the interesting thing: nearly three-quarters of Americans want to throw out most members of Congress, including their own representative, yet the vast majority of incumbents will be returning to Capitol Hill in January. In other words, Americans scorn Congress but keep re-electing its members. How could this be?

The first thing to remember is that members of Congress didn't get there by being lousy politicians. They know as well as you and I that Congress is unpopular, and they're masters at separating themselves from it and running against it — appearing to be outsiders trying to get in, rather than insiders who produce the Congress they pretend to disdain. They're also adept at talking up their own bipartisanship — which is what most general-election voters want — when, in fact, they almost always vote with their own party's leadership, especially on the obscure procedural votes that can decide an issue before the actual up-or-down vote is taken.

Just as important, incumbents enjoy an overwhelming advantage in elections: a large staff, both in Washington and at home, whose jobs focus on helping constituents. They find lost Social Security checks, help get funding for economic development projects, cut through red tape to secure veterans' benefits. At election time, voters remember this.

That's not the only help members can expect. They're buttressed in ways challengers can only dream about. They're paid a good salary, so they don't have to worry about supporting their families while they campaign. They get to spend their terms effectively campaigning year-round, not just at election time, and they are able to saturate their state or district with mass mailings. The nature of their work allows them to build ties to various interest groups back home — which quite naturally seek out the incumbents and ignore challengers.

Incumbents receive invitations to more events than they can possibly attend; challengers have trouble finding a meeting interested in having them. Incumbents get the honored place in the parade, the prime speaking position, the upper hand when it comes to raising money; challengers have to fight for visibility and money. And the news media seek out incumbents, often ignoring the challengers.

In fact, challengers are at a disadvantage at almost every point in a campaign. From building name recognition to arranging meetings to building credibility with editorial boards, donors, and opinion leaders, they're trudging uphill.

They do get one leg up — they're in the district all the time, while the incumbent has to be in Washington regularly — but that's a small advantage compared to the obstacles arrayed against them. Especially when districts are gerrymandered, as they often are, to protect incumbents. This means that in primaries, incumbents generally need to focus just on the most active voters, while in general elections the vast majority can consider themselves on safe ground.

But there's another reason incumbents keep getting re-elected that's also worth considering: voters — that's you and me. Most Americans don't vote, which means that a U.S. senator or representative might be elected by only 20 percent of the eligible voters. And those who do vote often cast their ballots for narrow or unusual reasons. They like the way they got treated by the incumbent's staff, or they shook his or her hand at a county fair, or they like his or her stand on a particular social or economic issue, or perhaps they just recognize the name.

Whatever the case, they don't look at an incumbent's entire record: votes on a cross-section of vital issues; willingness to work with members of different ideologies and backgrounds; ability to explain Washington back home and represent home in Washington; skill at forging consensus on tough policy challenges.

It's really no mystery that incumbent members get re-elected. Their advantages are baked into the system.

Lee Hamilton is Director of the Center on Congress at Indiana University. He was a member of the U.S. House of Representatives for 34 years.

Kentucky should end capital punishment

In another gruesome death penalty experiment, an Arizona inmate took nearly two hours to die Wednesday after he was injected with a lethal combination of drugs.

In a procedure that should have taken no more than 10 to 15 minutes, Joseph R. Wood, 55, died a lingering death over one hour and 57 minutes that horrified most observers including his own lawyers. They took the extreme step of filing an appeal midway through the execution to try to stop it.

Here's how the Associated Press reporter who witnessed the execution described it:

Wood's jaw dropped, his chest expanded, and he let out a gasp. The gasps repeated every five to 12 seconds. They went on and on, hundreds of times. An administrator checked on him a half-dozen times. He could be heard snoring loudly when an administrator turned on a microphone to inform the gallery that Wood was still sedated, despite the audible sounds.

As the episode dragged on, Wood's lawyers frantically drew up an emergency legal appeal, asking federal and state courts to step in and stop the execution.

"He has been gasping for more than an hour," the lawyers pleaded in their filings. "He is still alive."

Mr. Wood's execution, for the 1989 murder of his estranged girlfriend and her father, is the latest example of a botched execution as states continue to search for drugs and effective methods to kill people. The U.S. Supreme Court turned down Wood's request to delay the execution so his lawyers could seek details about which drugs Arizona planned to use.

In April, an Oklahoma inmate suffered for 40 minutes before dying of a heart attack from a botched execution which failed after a vein in which the drugs were being administered collapsed.

The 32 states that still have the death penalty, including Kentucky, are having an increasingly difficult time obtaining drugs for executions because pharmaceutical companies are loath to provide substances to kill people.

These events should shock the public into understanding what most developed nations already know — executions are not the hallmark of a civilized society.

Next month, a joint meeting of the Kentucky General Assembly's House and Senate Judiciary Committee is scheduled to discuss our state's use of the death penalty, which has not been employed since 2008.

A judge currently has barred the state from carrying out executions while reviewing legal challenges from some of the 33 inmates on Kentucky's death row.

The committee should give serious consideration to ending capital punishment in Kentucky and let this state be an example to others who persist in a practice that must come to an end.

Moments in time...

- On Aug. 1, 1498, Italian explorer Christopher Columbus sets foot on the American mainland for the first time, in present-day Venezuela. Thinking it was an island, he christened it Isla Santa and claimed it for Spain. Columbus, a deeply religious man, decided that Venezuela was the outer regions of the Garden of Eden.
- On July 29, 1862, Confederate spy Marie Isabella “Belle” Boyd is arrested by Union troops and detained for providing crucial information to the Confederates during the war. It was the first of three arrests. Boyd was just 18 years old.
- On Aug. 2, 1876, “Wild Bill” Hickok, one of the greatest gunfighters of the American West, is murdered in Deadwood, South Dakota. Hickok was playing cards with his back to the saloon door when a young gunslinger named Jack McCall shot him in the back of the head.
- On July 31, 1937, Charles Martine, an Apache scout who played an important role in the surrender of Geronimo in 1886, dies on the Mescalero Reservation in New Mexico. After being found, Geronimo agreed to a meeting with Gen. Nelson Miles, during which he gave his unconditional surrender. Martine and Geronimo were exiled, and Martine never did receive his promised reward.
- On July 28, 1945, a United States military plane crashes into the Empire State Building, killing 14 people. Upon impact, the plane’s jet fuel exploded. One engine from the plane went straight through the building and landed in a penthouse apartment across the street.
- On July 30, 1956, two years after pushing to have the phrase “under God” inserted into the pledge of allegiance, President Dwight D. Eisenhower signs a law officially declaring “In God We Trust” to be the nation’s official motto and be printed on all U.S. paper currency.
- On Aug. 3, 1965, CBS-TV news shows pictures of men from the First Battalion, Ninth Marines setting fire to huts in the village of Cam Na, Vietnam, despite reports that the Viet Cong had already fled the area. The film report sparked indignation and condemnation of the U.S. policy.

Eastern Kentucky coal production is high

Anytime you read or hear anything about coal, insert a mental asterisk for Eastern Kentucky.
Whether it's a political ad — aren't you sick of them already? — or a headline like “UK emissions pilot project could keep Ky. coal relevant,” remember this: The overriding consideration for coal mined in Eastern Kentucky is price.
The high cost of production in Central Appalachia, which also includes West Virginia, rules out a big rebound in the coal industry, no matter who is in power in Washington and even if scientists figure out how to burn coal without compromising the climate or environment.
The 2014 edition of Kentucky Coal Facts reports the following prices for coal delivered to utilities in 2013, in cost per million BTU, a measure of power for producing steam to generate electricity:
—Eastern Kentucky, $3.62
—West Virginia, $3.23
—Pennsylvania, $2.68
—Illinois, $2.49
—Western Kentucky, $2.40
—Wyoming, $2.03.

When buying a commodity by the trainload, you go with the lowest price. No Ph.d in economics is needed to understand what those numbers mean for the future.
What's hard to understand is why Kentucky's elected and business leaders failed to prepare for what they should have seen coming.
As Coal Facts, published by the state in cooperation with the Kentucky Coal Association, explains: “Since the year 2000 ... diminishing reserves of thick and easily accessible coal seams in Eastern Kentucky have made coal more difficult, labor intensive, and costly to mine, which has resulted in reductions in price competitiveness vis-a-vis coal from other regions and alternative sources of energy.

Letters to the editor

Board says thank you

Dear Editor,
The community center board would like to express our appreciation to everyone who helped in any way in this year's annual Barbecue. Every year, it is amazing to see how many people give of their time to help in some way.
While it is impossible to list everyone, we must acknowledge some individuals/groups. First of all, we want to give our thanks to Dudley Riley for drastically improving our raffle ticket sales by selling tickets for over a month.
Secondly, thank you to Donnie and Hank Mills and all of the Knights of Columbus for cooking the meat. Also, thank you to those who helped prepare and bottle the sauce, to those who came and helped pull the meat and pound it or make sandwiches, as well as those who worked in the kitchen or serving line. We appreciate all of the help the city gives us and the school for allowing us to use their facilities in preparing the sauce.

In addition, we appreciate all of the businesses that donated prizes for the raffle drawing.
Thank you to the Food Giant for selling the meat and sauce as well at their store. It makes it easier for many people to purchase the meat.
Thanks to the Rotary Club for all their support.
We would also like to thank the Rev. Dr. Larry Davidson and his wife Colleen for taking up money at the food sales for many years. Dr. Dee is retiring in September, so this will be their last Barbecue.
Our city should be so proud. Not many communities can say they have carried on an event like this for 66 years. The fact that it is manned 100 percent using volunteers is amazing. It was encouraging to see some new faces helping out this year. We need all of the help we can get, and there is always a job for anyone willing to help.
Once again, thank you very much to each and every person who helped in any way. You are appreciated.

The Barbeque and sides were delicious and fairly priced; the food sales were well organized; there were many items of interest, games, entertainment and amusements at the street fair. And as usual, visiting with our friends, family, and former classmates made the event a highlight in 2014.
Thank you for making the event a tremendous success, and we look forward to making the 2015 event even more special.

We, the parents of the senior class of 2015, would like to thank Earl Ramsey and his girls Joy and Laura and their cow (Baby Girl) for the help with our cow patty bingo game. It was such fun to explain how the game was played. And a big shout out to Lori Back and the Dawson Springs Health and Rehab for letting us use her idea for cow patty bingo and also letting us join in with the Seniors Helping Seniors shopping spree. Both games were a great success.
Congrats to Linda Chigwi, the winner of the shopping spree, and Pam Abbott and Jon Blalock on cow patty bingo. But let's not forget The Food Giant Family and Mr. Steve Everly for allowing us to sit outside the store and sell chances, adding the event to his sales flyers and letting us run and holler throughout his store Saturday morning.
In closing I would just like to thank you all for the effort by all the parents and nurses that sold the tickets and blocks. We all had a great time and things like this and our 66th annual BBQ is why Dawson Springs is such a special place.
Thank you,

To Your Good Health

By Keith Roach, M.D.

Sweating Buckets

DEAR DR. ROACH: I hope you can help me. I am 67 years old and have been sweating profusely from my head for about six years. I believe it is secondary hyperhidrosis. No one in my family has this problem. The sweating seems to happen at all different times, but not at night. The moisture runs in rivulets from my scalp anytime from morning to evening, but mostly in the morning.

I tried stopping my water pill, but it still happened. It happened when I stopped vitamins and took only my medications for physical problems. My doctor tested my thyroid, and it was fine.

Please help me, as it is an embarrassing ailment, and it happens no matter the season or what I have eaten. I do drink tea and coffee, but not soda. There are people who have said I should take Botox, but I have little faith in the product, as it can cause serious health problems and death. -- M.E.

ANSWER: “Hyperhidrosis” simply means “too much sweat.” I think you probably have primary hyperhidrosis, meaning that the sweating is the only problem, as opposed to secondary, which means it’s due to something else. Other conditions that can lead to secondary hyperhidrosis include the thyroid disease your doctor looked for, and medications (which it also doesn’t seem to be). Other rare causes, such as tuberculosis and lymphoma, surely would have produced other symptoms by now.

The most common sites for hyperhidrosis are the palms, armpits and soles of the feet. Nearly everybody sweats in those places, but with hyperhidrosis, the amount of sweat is much greater than normal and can have serious emotional, professional and social effects.

The first treatment I would recommend would be a prescription antiperspirant, either aluminum chloride (Xerac) or topical glycopyrrolate (available by compounding pharmacies in the U.S. and Canada). The scalp is a harder place than most to apply it, but after applying, you can dry with a hair dryer, and use a plastic shower cap to keep the medicine on at nighttime. Occasionally, oral medications such as clonidine are used.

Botulinum toxin (Botox) is usually quite safe in expert hands. A last resort is surgery to remove the sympathetic nerves to the scalp, a procedure that’s very effective.

DEAR DR. ROACH: In a recent column, you wrote, “Some people can’t absorb fructose.” I’d like to know more about that. What are the side effects of the inability to absorb fructose? How does that happen? -- I.N.

ANSWER: Fructose is a sugar naturally found in fruits, but also in sweeteners, especially honey and high-fructose corn syrup. Other sugars, such as glucose, improve fructose absorption. Few people get symptoms just from natural foods, because these contain the other natural sugars that improve fructose absorption. On the other hand, sorbitol (a “sugar alcohol”) decreases fructose absorption.

Almost half the population cannot completely absorb fructose, and the more fructose people take in, the greater the risk of the symptoms of malabsorption, including diarrhea, gas and bloating.

I recommend against HFCS for many reasons, but this is another one. For people with symptoms of malabsorption, I recommend a trial of reducing fructose and sorbitol.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu.
